EBG Capital led Swiss Investor group to invest in Australian dairy property

EBG Capital led a group of investors to purchasing in Tasmania, Australia. The investment was made at Clear Springs Farm, a mixed cropping and sheep property that will be converted into a dairy property. The conversion process began in December 2015 and will be completed in July 2016. Once fully operational, the farm has a carrying capacity of up to 1200 cows. Milk production will be purely based on grass-fed cattle, the most economical and sustainable way to produce milk.

The investor's consortium involves Swiss and local Australian investors, and a local partner in Australia that will steer the conversion process and oversee the management of the farm.

The farm is located close to Launceston, the second largest city in Tasmania. The total area is approximately 400ha of which 366ha will be irrigated.
