EBG Capital led Swiss Investor group to invest in Australian dairy property

EBG Capital led a group of investors purchasing Tasmania, Australia based Forester Lodge Farm, a mixed cropping property that will be converted into a dairy property. The conversion process has started in September 2016 and will be completed in April 2017. Once fully operational the farm has a carrying capacity of up to 850 cows. Milk production will be purely based on grass-fed production the most economical and sustainable way to produce milk.

The investor's consortium involves Swiss and local Australian investors and a local partner in Australia that will steer the conversion process and oversee the management of the farm.

The farm is located north of Launceston, the second largest city in Tasmania. The total area is around 520ha of which 266ha will be irrigated.
